KINCAID AND MILLS.

Two Democratic Candidates for the Legislature Address the People.

There was a large number of voters at the court house last night, to hear the democratic candidates for legislative honors. Hon. W. A. Kincaid, of Groesbeck, was first introduced, and in a speech of an hour and a half he pounded the republican party for its rotten administration of the state and national governments. He gave figures thoroughly authenticated to show what rascality, what stealth, and what tyranny was practiced during the reign of E. J. Davis; then he showed that the union labor party and other leaders of the Labor Union party had become members of a secret order called the National Videttes which was controlling the union labor party and deluding many honest men who were working under their banners in ignorance of the very existence of the National Videttes. He also showed up Marion Martin's record while a member of the Constitutional convention and during the time that Coke was endeavoring to have himself inaugurated as governor and stated that at that time Martin said "Let Davis be governor."

After Mr. Kincaid had finished, Mr. Mills was introduced, and in a speech which met with great response from the audience, he dissected Mr. Mr. A. J. Ish and his principles. He said Mr. Ish had been invited to meet him on the stump but had declined to do so and instead had issued a proclamation which was distributed among the citizens of the county. Mr. Mills then read the circular and commented as he went, causing roars of laughter by his criticisms. The audience, which was mostly made up of working men and a good many colored, listened with great attention to both speakers.
